Macquarie University Speech and Hearing Clinic

Macquarie University’s Speech and Hearing Clinic is located in the University’s new state-of-the-art facility – the Australian Hearing Hub.

High service standards
Conveniently located on Macquarie University’s park-like campus, the Speech and Hearing Clinic provides assessment and treatment for adult clients in all areas of communication and swallowing and feeding difficulties.

We offer alternative forms of service delivery, including individual and group sessions, distance intervention via teleconferencing, home visits and a no wait policy for appointments.

Speech and hearing expertise
Macquarie University Speech and Hearing Clinic offers prompt and detailed assessment and treatment for all aspects of speech, language, reading, writing, voice, fluency, swallowing and feeding difficulties, and multimodal communication across pathologies, such as:
- stroke
- head injury
- oncology (brain, head and neck)
- progressive neurological conditions (such as Motor Neurone Disease, Parkinson's Disease, Multiple Sclerosis, Myasthenia Gravis)
- adult disability (literacy, multimodal and general communication skills)

We also provide services for adults who require speech pathology for:
- accent reduction
- stuttering and cluttering
- voice disorder

An academic advantage
Our team of highly experienced speech pathologists are also experienced in various fields of speech pathology including clinical education and speech pathology research.

Our team members’ publications in internationally peer-reviewed journals include current trends in clinical practice and key assessment and research papers which are influential in speech pathology practice.

All services provided by students in the Macquarie University’s Master of Speech and Language Pathology program are supervised by our fully qualified speech pathology clinical educators.

Our speech and language pathologists have specialised clinical experience both in Australia and internationally.
