

Build confidence in delivering culturally responsive care for Aboriginal mothers, babies, children and families

Providing safe, respectful care supports strong outcomes for Aboriginal families. This learning navigator brings together maternal, child and family health education to support connected, culturally safe practice across care settings.

This navigator provides a central place to explore tailored learning through My Health Learning. It supports you to:

- strengthen culturally responsive practice
- build clinical and communication skills
- navigate relevant modules and resources
- apply approaches that promote safe, connected care for families.

Culturally responsive care matters

Search for Aboriginal Maternal, Child and Family Health Learning Navigator

Course code: 663042234