

Nursing in emergency care settings

Nurses in emergency care settings are at the frontline of patient care, providing assessment and treatment to patients with a wide range of diverse and complex presentations. This module uses reflection moments and scenarios to illustrate how you can reflect on your skills in safely assessing, managing and escalating care in these fast-paced and unpredictable environments.

This module will support nurses working in an emergency care setting to:

- Build the full clinical picture of the undifferentiated patient
- Provide care to the undifferentiated patient
- Recognise and respond to red flags
- Communicate safely in the emergency care setting.

Assess. Care. Communicate. Complete your training now.
