

Do you provide postnatal support for Aboriginal families?

This module will assist you to support and maintain engagement with Aboriginal families after childbirth by providing culturally safe, inclusive and responsive care.

The module is designed for healthcare professionals working with Aboriginal families and communities during the postnatal period and transitioning to child and family health services.

You will:

- hear from families about what is important to them after childbirth
- to reflect upon these perspectives and how they contribute to improving your practice.

Provide culturally safe, inclusive and responsive care.
Learn more now.

Search for Supporting Aboriginal Families After Childbirth

Course code: 522930064