

Is your patient ready for a genomic test?

Consent for genomic testing is more than the provision of information. It involves helping your patient reflect on the potential emotional and clinical impacts of the testing process and possible results. Supported reflection will help them decide if testing is right for them and their family.

Completing this module will help you support patients to make considered choices about genomic testing.

In this 20-minute self-paced module you will learn how to:

- explore with patients the possible impact and implications of genomic testing during consent conversations
- recognise when it would be beneficial to seek advice from and/or referral to specialist genetics services before proceeding to genomic testing.

Considered decisions, empowered patients.
Help patients make informed choices.

Search for Consent for genomic testing (Part 2):
Facilitating informed decision-making

Course code: 648943817